WASTE WATER

Most people or most other

Most people or most other sort of organizations, which bring people together in the water industry, are afraid to talk about money.

Christopher Gasson

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

Water is immensely capital intensive! For $1 of revenue, you need $7-8 of infrastructure investment. And if you don't talk about how you're going to attract that $7-8 of infrastructure investment you might as well get out of the water industry right now. You're wasting your life.

It doesn't matter whether you've got a private system or a public system. But you need to have a system that gets capital into water. Otherwise you're wasting your time.

Christopher Gasson

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

It's a way of bringing people together who care about the future of water.

Christopher Gasson

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

Each project that we track becomes a piece of data about the future of that market, how fast it is growing and where it's going.

Christopher Gasson

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

We can't know everything,

but we can try and put ourselves in the position where we know more than other people or we know everything that is published!

Christopher Gasson

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

Most intelligent people know, that's impossible to say what the future's going to be.

WASTE WATER

What we discovered was that actually, good water pays for itself!

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

On the wastewater side, we discovered that pipes don't actually pay for themselves if you have good fecal sludge management and you're in a low-income country.

Christopher Gasson

Owner & Publisher @ GWI

History shows that if you can provide a good source of water, people will be prepared to pay for it.
